Servas Peace School Academy

Olive Tree/Servas Peace School Academy

Location: Ekinci Village, Antakya, Turkey.

(Where peace school takes place every summer)

The huge earthquake destroyed not only buildings but the veins of the cultural diversity and treasures in Antakya. Servas Peace school academy will function to bring back the loss and even turn this earthquake area to be a valley of knowledge and skills.

It is a permanent (will function for the whole year), self-sustainable, environment-friendly academy where children will discover the diversity of the earth. Also, adults will be able to join activities and volunteer as trainers. The academy will function as the Servas international center, too.

Apart from the variety of topics that Servas care for, the academy will cooperate with local farmers, other producers, and human resources and include them in learning and sharing processes. Volunteers will stay with local families for maximum exchange opportunities.

Now, we need to;

- We are in search for a funded land but let say buy or rent a piece of land if any case.

2

- build houses (ecological with local/modern architecture)
- invite volunteers to help with planning, organizing, and building
- start a donation campaign.

(We aim to build this academy with the support and sources of Servas individuals and Servas friends all around the world. This way, it is going to be our Servas home.

Let's not postpone our dreams.

Let's share what we know with younger generations and different cultures.

Let's teach and learn.

Let's stand up and start to change life for good.

Let's work together to build together.

Let's give the chance to ourselves to realize our values.

It is possible together ☺❤
